Going for a bigger pie

Puravankara gears up to take advantage of an evolving realty market

Bengaluru-based Puravankara Ltd is betting big on the consolidating domestic realty market. The property developer, backed by its impeccable track record of execution capabilities and delivery schedules, has diversified its portfolio – both in terms of the properties it builds and the geography it is present in. The company has significantly ramped up its capabilities to explore opportunities in the fast-evolving marketplaces.

Having grown at a CAGR of about 19 per cent in the last five years, even bucking market trends, the developer has re-entered the country's largest realty market – the Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR). As a part of its new strategy, it has also extended its presence in the southern markets in a big way. From being Ravi Puravankara plotted development with one project in Bengaluru, while looking to launch about six more projects, spanning 5.5 million sq ft, in the current fiscal year. It has created a separate brand, Purva Land, under which it carries out plotted development in Bengaluru, Chennai and Coimbatore. Experts are of the opinion that, considering construction-related challenges, this move will also help generate faster cash flow.

Over the last few years, sensing the emerging opportunities and to tap them in a more focused manner, the company has brought about structural changes within the organisation as well. Towards this end, it created a separate entity (a wholly-owned subsidiary), Provident Housing Ltd, which is into the rapidly-growing premium affordable housing segment and has already left its mark in the market, with over 21 million sq ft of projects under its belt.

The entity, launched in 2008, has delivered close to 12 million sq ft of space to about 30,000 home-owners. Additionally, a little over 7 million sq ft is marked for new launches in the near future. The launch pipeline under Provident accounts for more than 80 per cent of the company's total launch pipeline.

Ashish: we want to play a bigger role

"As a company, we have designed a comprehensive structure that helps us steer clear of complacency and drives us towards long-term stability," says Ravi Puravankara, 68, founder & chairman, Puravankara Ltd. "Leveraging technology that complements human expertise is a culture of collaboration, vision and leadership, the company was one of the first real estate ventures to get FDI in 2005 from the Singapore-based Koppel Land Ltd (the partnership still continues), followed by a listing on the stock exchange in 2007 and then the setting up of a separate entity, Provident Housing Ltd, the affordable housing

INTERVIEW: ASHISH PURAVANKARA, MD, Puravankara 'After Covid, homebuyers are exploring risk-free options with a good yield'

Bengaluru-based Puravankara has entered the plotted development segment. With this, the real estate developer is set to launch six projects spread around 5.5 million sq ft across Bengaluru, Chennai and Coimbatore. In an interview with Rishi Ranjan Kala, managing director Ashish Puravankara said Covid-19 induced uncertainties are forcing homebuyers to explore risk-free options that offer good yields. Edited excerpts:

What is the rationale behind Puravankara entering plotted development? In the past, plotted development was a preferred asset class due to reasons like flexibility, affordability, minimal risk and high returns. In a market that is ridden with pandemic-led uncertainties, plotted developments have regained their stature for homebuyers who are exploring risk-free options with a good yield. A market that was hitherto led by smaller and unorganised players, is now a level-playing field for listed developers. Increased desire for larger spaces, high-end amenities and value for money has pushed homebuyers to opt for tier-1 developers.

The launch of Purva Land, our dedicated arm for plotted development, is a step to address this positive shift in customer sentiment. As part of our new segment, we are set to launch 6 projects in Bengaluru, Chennai, and Coimbatore, which will attribute to nearly 5.5 million sq ft. We aim to enable customers to benefit from a fruitful investment and enjoy greater flexibility concerning the layout, design, and function of the space.

Puravankara recently re-entered Mumbai after almost four decades. What are the reasons? Mumbai Metropolitan Region has continued to be one of the most favoured investment destinations globally. With an uptick in demand for luxury housing, especially during last year, it is well-positioned for exponential growth. With people being confined to their homes for most of the day, they were nudged to relook at their spaces and reimagine how they wanted to live. Besides encouraging initiatives from the state, like stamp duty relaxation, tax exemptions, and low interest rates, contributed to a favourable environment. Considering these factors, we believe that it was conducive for us to re-enter the region's exciting real estate landscape, through the launch of 'Purva Clermont'. The location of the project, Chembur, is at the heart of the city and a highly connected hub.

There has been an uptick in the sale of luxury homes. What are your plans for this segment? The luxury housing segment has witnessed a significant shift in customer perspective. The current model of work and life has pushed several people to spend a majority of their time at home. This led to a re-evaluation of their residential property, mainly in terms of space and function. This change manifested as a surge in demand for Puravankara's luxury and ultra-luxury projects from domestic and NRI customers. There was an approximate rise of 20% in the number of luxury units sold from April 2020 to December 2020 in comparison to 2019.

Developers are complaining about rising input costs of raw materials. What is your experience? Over the last few months, there have been constant fluctuations in the prices of two key raw materials, steel and cement. This has led to a direct increment of input costs for all players in the sector. So far, we have constantly worked toward shielding our customers by not hiking the end price of our projects instead of increased the costs of these materials. However, as steel and cement continue to remain non-negotiable raw materials in construction, long-term price escalations could soon have an impact on the end-user. However, if this scenario continues for a longer duration, most developers will have no choice but to allow the spill-over of these costs to the customers.

What are your expectations for January-March 2021 and beyond? As the population braces itself for a potential second wave of the pandemic, homebuyers are eager to invest in homes that will positively affect their well-being and offer a sustainable living experience. As customer-centric developers, we will continue to deliver projects that echo the evolving needs of customers – be it closer access to green landscapes, larger spaces, high-end amenities, convenience-focused innovation, and infrastructure that promotes a healthy lifestyle. So, as an industry, we hope for good numbers in terms of overall sales in the next four-six months.

Puravankara FY21 sales bookings up 28% at Rs 2,202 crore

PTI - Last Updated: Jul 01, 2021, 03:53 PM IST

Synopsis Almost all sales bookings came from the residential segment, with a negligible contribution from commercial properties.

NEW DELHI: Bengaluru-based Puravankara Ltd has sold properties worth Rs 2,202 crore in 2020-21, up 28 per cent from the previous fiscal, following strong demand driven by low-interest rates on home loans amid the Covid-19 pandemic. The company's sales bookings stood at Rs 1,714 crore in 2019-20.

"Despite FY21 being a year of pandemic and consequent lockdown, the strong brand positioning and recall of the group enabled us to increase our sales by 28 per cent to around Rs 2,200 crore. Ongoing projects along with new launches fuelled this growth," Puravankara Ltd said in an investors presentation.

Almost all sales bookings came from the residential segment, with a negligible contribution from commercial properties.
